THE PIVOT OF 1884.

It is morally certain that the Forty-eighth Congress will be in session when both parties make their Presidential nominations next year, whether the Conventions be called early or late. From the first that session will be almost wholly given up to the manufacture of political capital to be used for campaign purposes. Without attempting to forecast the plottings and counterplottings of the next session at Washington, or to predict what is really wholly uncertain, it may be well to take account, in a leisurely way, when no contest is upon us, of a few cardinal facts or factors in the case, and discover if possible the probable pivot of 1884. The Chicago Inter-Ocean says "in 1880 there were 369 electoral votes; in 1884, under the last census and appointment, there will be 401 votes. The lowest number of votes possible to an election in 1880 was 185; in 1884 it will require 201. Garfield received 214 to Hancock's 155. The States which voted for Garfield have made an aggregate gain of 17, 20 gross gains and three losses. The States of Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire each lost one, and the gains were: California, 2; Illinois, 1; Iowa, 2; Kansas, 4; Massachusetts, 1; Michigan, 2; Minnesota, 2; Nebraska, 2; New York, 1; Ohio, 1; Pennsylvania, 1; Wisconsin, 1. The other States in which gains were made are Southern, and were, in 1880, Democratic, namely: Arkansas, 1; Georgia, 1; Kentucky, 1; Mississippi, 1; Missouri, 1; North Carolina, 1; South Carolina, 2; Texas, 5; Virginia, 1; West Virginia, 1; total, 15. The States may be classified as Republican, Democratic and doubtful, thus:

REPUBLICAN.

DOUBTFUL.

Nevada.....	3
New York.....	36
Ohio.....	23
Virginia.....	12

The Democrats insist that New York is not a doubtful State any longer, and the Republicans point to the fact that Ohio has always given its Presidential voice for the Republican candidate, including Fremont. It was one of the eleven Republican States in 1856, and has never faltered at any Presidential election since, however much wobbling it may do between again. New York, however, is really a doubtful quantity at all elections, State and National. If Governor Cleveland should make a good record, and, like Tilden and Seymour before him, carry the Convention, he would probably carry the State. For the purposes of this calculation we will take both of these States out of the doubtful list. The result would then be, Republican, 177; Democratic, 186; doubtful, 38.

California is almost sure to go Republican. Notwithstanding the infamous Morry letter it was carried for Garfield in 1880. It ought not to be classed as a doubtful State, especially since the Chinese question has been settled to the satisfaction of the Pacific slope. Nevada is not so calculable, and must continue to be reckoned as doubtful. Taking California out of the dubious category and placing it where it belongs, the result stands: Republican, 185; Democratic, 186; doubtful, 30.

With all the States classified with one party or the other, except these three Indiana, Virginia and Nevada, the Democrats still have an advantage, for either Indiana or any two of the three States would give them a majority of electoral votes.

Indiana alone, or Virginia and Nevada combined, would either give the Democrats 201 votes to 200 for the Republican ticket. On the other hand, the Republicans could lose one of the two minor States if they carried Indiana and the other one. Indiana and Nevada added to the list give as the net result 203 Republican electoral votes, and Indiana and Virginia 212.

Virginia is much more likely to go Republican than Democratic. Mahone and his fellow Readjusters have got a firm grip upon the State, and already announce that they have done once for all time with the old Bourbon party. This means, of course, that they will pool their issues on the Presidency with the Republicans, and if that should be done, and no break occurs anywhere along the line, that would insure Republican victory in the Old Dominion in 1884, and the situation will be well enough understood a year hence to eliminate the State from classification as doubtful. Assuming Virginia to be Republican the case stands, Republican, 197; Democrats, 186; doubtful, 18.

We have now reached a final analysis. Indiana is a necessity to each party. Nevada alone would give the Republicans 200, just as near as Tilden came in 1876. That little State may therefore be eliminated from the doubtful category, and Indiana stands out, not by any forced construction, but by a natural sequence of probabilities, as the pivotal State. It was not so in 1880. Then New York held the balance of power. Had its 35 votes been taken from Garfield's 214 and added to Hancock's 155 the latter would have been elected; but now the scepter has departed, and, politically speaking, Indiana is the Empire State, provided, of course, that in its zeal to capture Hoosierdom the Democrats do not sacrifice New York. They will find it no easy task to ride both of these horses. Indiana cannot be put off again with the Vice Presidential sop, and New York's Governor would scorn to be the tail-feather of a prairie-chicken. If, on the other hand, McDonald should be set aside for Cleveland, or any other man, there would be blood on the moon."

THE CULTIVATION OF BOOMS.

Boom culture, according to Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper, is one of the most frequent and most seductive, if not the noblest, employment of the political agriculturist. While it may in some respects suggest elephant-breeding—of the white variety—and by its novelty and uncertainty be somewhat analogous to ostrich-farming, it is in reality unique. For example, while it is the early bird that catches the worm, it is not the early boom that catches the nomination. In fact, one of the surest ways to rid one's self of an obnoxious rival candidate is to "set on" a boom as long ahead of the convention as possible; ninety-nine times out of a hundred it is safe to wager that the boom will catch the would-be candidate, while the nomination incontinently escapes. It has been truly remarked by Mr. Benjamin Franklin, or some other equally reputable philosopher, that "a boom in the hand is worth two hundred in the newspaper;" but the earliest characteristic developed by the inchoate and juvenile boom is to seek the publicity that a newspaper gives. A boom in its really age takes as naturally to a sanctum as a duck does to water, or, to put it more strongly, as naturally as a New York ward politician avoids water.

There are no two booms precisely alike in size, shape or disposition; but for the convenience of naturalists curious in such matters they may be generally classified as (1) booms that die in a single season; (2) booms that are sporadic and intermittent; and (3) booms that are perennial. The periodicity of booms, by a convenient coincidence, is contemporaneous with the recurrence of Presidential elections. As to the characteristics and moral attributes of booms (1) booms that are as innocuous and innocent as babes unborn; (2) booms that kill their man, and in the vernacular of a certain class of New York professionals are "toughs;" (3) booms that kill off all candidates but their own. It is unnecessary to add that the latter class is in the greatest demand and cannot be bought even with the contents of the most exhaustless barrel. In the lexicon of the ambitious politician, St. Paul is paraphrased: "Would that mine enemy would start a boom." Which suggests that there is still another subdivision in the proper classification which includes: (1) Booms that are raised by the candidate himself; and (2) booms that other people cultivate for him. In these lays a man who does anything at all to give him prominence is immediately presented with a boom. But, in the beautiful language of the poet:

"Boom after boom departs—
Who has not lost a boom?"

Some booms are nipped in the bud by the first frosts of public opinion; others are tenderly taken in out of the cold and nursed in hothouses and Warfield cases. Among the booms that, like the poor, we have always with us, are those of Senator Hendricks, James G. Blaine, Roscoe Conkling, John Logan, Senator Bayard, and Ulysses S. Grant; but, by universal consent, the finest example of the perennial boom is that of Samuel

J. Tilden, which appears to be gifted with immortal youth. While it has not grown any for the last century or two, it reappears with fresh sap and verdure supernally every four years. "Booms may come and booms may go," to quote from a distinguished ex-President, "but Tilden's boom goes on for ever." Then there is the intermittent boom, like that of Senator Harrison, of Indiana; or Senator Hawley, of Connecticut; or Judge Field, of California. There is the sentimental boom, like that of Secretary Lincoln; the esthetic boom, as that of Professor Sullivan, of Boston; or the "dude" boom, as that of John Kelly, of New York. Among the go-as-you-please booms are those of the tidal wave trio of Governors—Butler, Cleveland and Pattison. Beyond question the handsomest sanctum boom—now being carefully nursed by a metropolitan evening contemporary—is that of Charles A. Dana. Still, again, there is the attend-strictly-to-business and-no-joking booms, which are very sensibly kept as much out of sight as possible by John Sherman, Senator Edmunds and President Arthur. Among the finest examples of baby booms are those of Mayor Harrison, of Chicago, and Postmaster-General Gresham. The catalogue might be indefinitely extended; but, for the information of would-be candidates, we will simply add that the same rule applies to booms as distinguishes mushrooms and toadstools; if it kills you the boom is poisoned—if you are nominated and elected it was a genuine boom.

The New York anti-monopoly paper, Justice, is in accord with the spirit of the times in the belief that the next great conflict in our history will be fought out in the near future between the people and the monopolies. It says: "Shall the creatures of the people, created for the public benefit, be permitted to become the masters of the people's labor? The Creator is always greater than the created. Manifestly the people have the right to insist that corporations shall only exist under such restrictions as will make them a public benefit and subservient to the public will—not masters of it. Monopolies are a curse. Whether they exist by grant from the State or by reasons of circumstances, they should be controlled in the interests of the people. The sooner the conflict is begun in earnest, the less difficult it will be and the sooner ended."

The trestlework railroad bridge now being constructed across Lake Pontchartrain will, when completed, be twenty-one miles in length and will be the longest bridge of the kind in the United States. More than 15,000,000 feet of lumber outside of the piles will be used in its construction.

Everybody who attended the Hose boys' ball last night enjoyed themselves very much and the boys were made happy.

Warden Bell was in town yesterday having been subpoenaed as a witness in the Crockett-Kinkead cases, as also was Auditor Wright.

Mrs. Alt has, by close attention to business, made herself the most popular teacher of dancing that Reno has ever seen. All who attend may depend upon having a jolly time to-night.

The ladies of the Methodist Society are preparing a good literary and musical entertainment for their Kate Greenaway party. We understand that quaint costumes and delicious lunches are to be the attractions of the evening.

With Madame Janauschek, who plays here next week, will also appear George Chaplin, who was Piper's leading man in the flush times of '75. Chaplin will be as warmly welcomed by old sagebrushites as Janauschek herself.

The Methodist Church was crowded last night to hear the temperance lecture by Miss Willard. The lady is a ready, eloquent speaker deserving of the reputation that has preceded her. Witty, forcible, sarcastic and deadly in earnest were the words that fell so easily from her lips. Lack of space forbids even a short account of her line of argument.

Reno Prints.

San Francisco is well supplied with Reno prints. Frank Mosher is "subbing" on the San Francisco Chronicle, Mit Benham is also a city "sub," Charlie Squires, formerly on the Gazette, and Phil O'Rook, are at work in Crocker's, and Joe Weston is working on the Pacific Coast Directory. Ed Poeschel is now in the city buying material for the paper in Bakersfield, of which he is local editor and business manager. The boys are all doing well, and we hope will so continue.

Frederick Burns, an inmate of the State Prison, died at three o'clock yesterday morning. The cause of his death was heart disease. He was twenty-six years old, a native of New York, committed from Ormsby county, for burglary, for one year on Jan. 22nd, 1883.

SAVINGS BANK CASES.

The Court convened yesterday at 10 A. M., Judge Rising presiding. Counsel for prosecution introduced in evidence the certificate of incorporation of the Reno Savings Bank; objected to by General Clarke for the defense, upon the ground that no offense having been charged in the indictment no evidence can be submitted showing any crime. The General argued that so far as defendant Crockett is concerned as Trustee and Vice President of the bank he could not, under the statutes of this State, commit the crime of embezzlement for the reason that he was neither "a servant, a clerk, an apprentice, or other person bound or hired." Col. Ellis for the prosecution argued that the acts of both defendants come clearly within the provisions of the act of 1879. The Court indicated a belief that no offense has been charged in the indictment, but without deciding that point expressed a willingness to allow plaintiffs to introduce evidence going to establish the fact that defendants were, under any laws of this State, officers or servants of the bank. Recess taken until 1:30.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Col. Ellis read to the jury the certificate of incorporation of the bank.

M. C. Lake sworn—Acted as President of the bank from its commencement. L. L. Crockett was elected as Trustee and Vice President; Jas. H. Kinkead acted as Manager; Bachelder was Cashier. The book containing the by-laws and meetings of the Board was offered in evidence.

Examination of Lake continued—Was present at meetings of the Board many times, but can't tell how often. Was not at the bank the night of the 23d nor the morning of the 24th of June, 1880. James H. Kinkead performed his duties as prescribed by the by-laws, so far as I know. Kinkead's salary was from $150 to $250 per month. Do not know that Crockett ever had any control, or exercised any control, over the funds of the bank. Prosecution offered a series of letters from Crockett to Kinkead, pertaining to bank matters. Ruled inadmissible.

The prosecution introduced a book containing the by-laws and rules governing the bank, to show that Kinkead and Crockett were the servants of the corporation. The Court held that there was nothing in the evidence which showed that Crockett was the servant of the bank and held that he was eventually out of the case.

Judge Rising said he would allow the prosecution to go on with their evidence, and take the point raised by defense relative to Kinkead's position under advisement until morning.

Seymour Bryant was put on the stand and testified. A night session was held last evening, in order to finish as soon as possible.

SUNDAY AT THE PRISON.

"The 'day of rest' brings a portion of pleasure in to the darkened lives of the inmates of the State Prison. If the weather is at all favorable, they have the freedom of the yard for three hours in the forenoon and they are at liberty to employ this time in any reasonable amusement. To one who has watched these prisoners during the regular routine work of week day hours, and noticed their subdued, mechanical manner, occasioned by the enforcement of strict discipline, cannot but be impressed with the air of brightness (one might almost say of happiness) that surrounds them during the recreation hours of the Sabbath. What enjoyment it is to stand up and sit down, walk and run, laugh and talk according to inclination, can only be understood by those who have been deprived of that personal liberty, which is dearer to every heart than all else on earth. After dinner the prisoners are allowed to remain in the dining room until the time for being locked up in their cells. Here they talk together, read, write, sing, play, etc. During the hour of religious services they remain seated, a quiet and attentive audience. The Pastors of the various Oregon Churches take turns in conducting these services. They are usually accompanied by their respective choirs, who perhaps in all their lives, will never sing to a gathering of people, who so fully enjoy every note of their music as do these men, shut away from all that makes life endurable. On last Sunday afternoon, after the address by Rev. Mr. Fairbairn, Mrs. Howe, one of the most talented ladies of Carson, recited the well known selection of "No Sinner in Heaven." Perhaps no better "sermon" could be given these men than the kindly words of hope and encouragement extended to every one, who will strive to make his life as pure and good as the light within him directs. The service closed with the singing, by all present, of the old hymn "Rock of Ages, Cleft For Me." The familiar words, "could my zeal no respite know, could my tears forever flow, all for sin could not atone, Thou must save and Thou alone," gained a deeper significance when sung by those crime-burdened men within the Prison walls.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. feb. 21-sw-lyr.

That Settles It.

Brought into Competition with the World. the Best Carries off the Honors—

At the great Centennial Exhibition of 1876, the leading products of all the branches of the World's industry were assembled at Philadelphia. To carry off a prize in the face of that tremendous competition was a task of no ordinary difficulty. Inventions and preparations for the alleviation of pain and the cure of disease were present in the greatest possible variety, representing the skill and the profoundest study of the age, and it may be of vital importance to you, personally, to know that the highest and only medal given to rubber Porous plasters, was awarded to the manufacturers of BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER, by the following jury:

DR. WM. ROTH, Surgeon-General, Prussian Army.

J. E. THOMPSON, A. M. M. D., Washington, D. C.

C. B. WHITE, M. D., New Orleans.

ERNEST FLEISCH, M. D., Austria.

The decision was afterwards confirmed by the medical jury at the last Paris Exposition. Knowing the value of such high and unbiased testimony, the medical profession, both in the United States and in Europe, quickly threw aside the old, slow-acting plasters they had been using, and adopted Benson's in their regular practice. That physicians and surgeons of the broadest reputations did this, distinctly proves the intrinsic merit of the article. It is no more than just to add that the average physician of to-day is not dominated by the prejudices which retarded the progress and modified the successes of his predecessors of not more than twenty-five years ago. He accepts hints from all quarters and endorses and adopts demonstrated healing agents wherever he finds them.

The right of Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster to stand at the head of all external applications whatsoever, for the mitigation or cure of disease, is no longer questioned.

Let the purchaser, however, be on his guard against imitations. The genuine has the word CAPCINE cur in the middle.

TO THE CITIZENS OF RENO.

I HAVE BEEN A RESIDENT OF YOUR town for three years, and outside of my own business have not seen a decent pair of boots that were made here. In order, therefore, to extend to everyone facilities for obtaining really first-class boots and shoes, I have sent to San Francisco for two A. No. 1 mechanics, the best to be found in the country, and shall run (as heretofore) a prime first-class shop. This enlargement of my stock and facilities will entail heavy extra expense, and I look and trust, therefore, to Reno's citizens, and all the people generally desirous of obtaining the very best of workmanship, to aid me with their increased patronage. First-class material, first-class workmen and first-class work, at living rates, is the motto of my coat of arms inscribed on the banner floating from my castle walls.
